

Hierarchical Clustering of Simulated Data Paths

Tsvetanka Kovacheva

Department of Mathematics, Technical University, Bulgaria
tsveta.kovacheva@tu-varna.bg

ABSTRACT

The paper considers the stochastic simulation for modeling insurance activity. A stochastic asset model is used for long term financial planning and different scenarios simulation. The simulated scenarios form the scenario fan. Construction of the multistage scenario tree with desired properties from the scenario fan is made with modified hierarchical clustering method. Statistical analysis techniques are performed to analyze the scenario trees.